Stated dimensions and area measured in the interior (excluding of the exterior walls and the ceiling of interior damage walls) and in fact vary from the dimensions that would be determined by using the description and dimensions of the "bare" wall in the Database (which usually only includes the interior parapet between the perimeter walls and includes interior structural components). Additionally, measurements of rooms set back on any floor plan are generally taken at the greatest point of each room (as far as the room were a perfect rectangle), without regard for any floor plate. Accordingly, the size of the actual room will typically be smaller than the product obtained by multiplying the stated length times width. All dimensions are approximate and all floor plate and development plans are subject to change.
